Foundations of Cryocoolers

Monday, May 17, 2010

Georgia Tech Hotel and Conference Center, Atlanta

All-day Short Course presented by Dr. Ray Radebaugh and Dr. Willy Gully
Just before the 16th International Cryocooler Conference, ICC16

Don't miss this excellent opportunity! Dr. Ray Radebaugh, consultant to the Physical and Chemical Properties Division, NIST Boulder, is a world-renowned expert in the field of cryogenics. Join him and Dr. Willy Gully, Staff Consultant at Ball Aerospace, as they discuss the latest developments in cryocooler technology and concepts. This course will serve as an introduction to those relatively new to the field or those who are familiar with only one type of cryocooler. Dr. Radebaugh and Dr. Gully will present an updated course including new technical information on timely topics.
